The Yellow Ribbon Fund was started in Washington DC in 2005 by private citizens to provide support for injured service personnel returning home from military institutions such as Walter Reed, Fort Belvoir and others with traumatic wounds sustained in the field of battle. The YRF meets a tremendous range of critical and specific needs that fall outside the mandate of the nation's military medical and rehabilitation facilities. These needs include long and short-term housing for the families of injured service members, transportation, recreation, entertainment, mentoring and internships, holiday meals, and simple companionship during medical treatment and rehabilitation - which normally takes months or years and is often grueling and isolating.

The Yellow Ribbon Fund is a national 501(c)(3) and all donations are 100%

Tax Deductible!

"May I have a hug? I want to thank you since I heard you say you're with the Yellow Ribbon Fund - you brought my family together."

"To YRF, Your part in our stay here (Walter Reed) was invaluable..."

"The hardest thing of being a caregiver is always making sure you keep your spirits up. The YRF has given me time for myself...to forget about the problems..."

CONGRESSMAN MICHAEL J. ROGERS

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

A 1985 graduate of Adrian College in Michigan, Mike earned his reputation as a leader during his service as a U.S. Army officer/company commander (1985-88), FBI Special Agent investigating public corruption as a member of the Chicago Bureau's organized crime unit (1988-94), and in the Michigan Senate (1995-2000) where he served as Senate Majority Floor Leader (1999-2000).

Mike's leadership positions, experience and legislative record enable him to effectively advocate for the residents of Michigan's Eighth Congressional District in a multitude of areas that impact our everyday lives. Mike consistently reaches out to assist residents in dealing with federal agencies on issues related to Social Security, veterans care, education, the IRS, health care and many others. He also proactively helps workers and employers with job growth and retention, and supporting communities with a variety of development, funding and service-related matters.

Mike's leadership skills are acknowledged by House leaders in his appointment to serve on two major committees, the powerful Energy and Commerce panel and the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence.

In the 112th Congress, Mike was appointed Chairman of the Intelligence Committee for his experience and personal interest in national security. The panel oversees the 17 agencies that make up the U.S. intelligence community, including operations and budgetary oversight, and it is the primary panel responsible for overseeing implementation of the intelligence community restructuring.

As a national leader on security issues, Mike authored the country's premier biodefense law to develop medical countermeasures which protect Americans from threats like anthrax, small pox and chemical weapons. He helped shape America's strategy for fighting al Qaida and the Taliban in the rugged border area between Pakistan and Afghanistan, issued an Intelligence Committee report on Iran's nuclear ambitions, wrote legislation to reauthorize and strengthen the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, and identified the danger of giving Miranda warnings to foreign terrorists.

On the Energy and Commerce Committee, Mike's two subcommittee assignments include the Health Subcommittee and the Communications, Technology and the Internet Subcommittee. Energy and Commerce is the oldest standing committee in the U.S. House of Representatives. It serves as the principal guide for the House in matters relating to the promotion of commerce and to the public's health and marketplace interests.
